

- Song lyrics are usually written how they are sung, without worrying about spelling or punctuation. For example, here is part of Olivia Foa'i's song Party for 1.

I'll be messy bunnin'
 While your party's pumpin'
 I'm in a t-shirt dancin' on my own
 Lookin' like risky business
 Cookin' in the kitchen
 Don't try to reach me
 Can't come to the phone

- 1) Write out some of the lyrics to a song you like. You can find most lyrics on genius.com. Please choose lyrics that are G or PG rated! If you don't like music, do a TV theme-song, hymn, nursery rhyme etc. instead.
- 2) Why did you choose these lyrics? Are they important to you or relatable in some way? Do they go well with the music?

- Lyrics are written in lines to emphasize the flow of the music. To see the difference, let's rewrite Party for 1 as a paragraph. We'll also put the "proper" spelling and punctuation back in.

I'll be messy bunning while your party's pumping. I'm in a t-shirt, dancing on my own. Looking like risky business, cooking in the kitchen.
 Don't try to reach me, I can't come to the phone.

- Olivia Foa'i invented a new word "bunning" in Party for 1. Notice messy is an adjective and bun is a noun, but adding the "ing" turns "bunning" into a verb.

- 3) Rewrite your lyrics from 1) as a paragraph using "proper" spelling and punctuation.

4) Why do you think singers invent new words in their music? What mental image does “messy bunnin” evoke? Did the artist invent any new words in your lyrics from 1)?

- A good way to learn creative writing is to imitate the style of people you respect. Here are some lyrics I’ve written in the style of Olivia Foai’s Party for 1.

I’ll be gluin’ Warhammer
While you’re rockin’ bangers
I’m in my PJs paintin’ river trolls
Lookin’ like agin’ Chewbacca
I’ll watch A New Hope after
Don’t try to text me
While yellow text scrolls

5) Can you write your own lyrics in the style of the song you chose in 1)?
